Two Soviet Views on Asian War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Soviet fury over Red China's initiatives in Indochina leaves the impression that the Russians feel they have been outsmarted and fear that Peking stands to be the long-term and perhaps only beneficiary of events in Cambodia.

Though they may glean consolation from the difficulties Cambodia has created for Washington, the Russians may look upon the turn of events in Indochina as a disaster of sorts for Moscow, too.

While the Kremlin hung back indecisively after the overthrow of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Peking acted swiftly to capitalize on the situation. The result as of now is that Peking has a large section of the Asian Communist movement—along with Sihanouk—echoing its cry for "protracted war."

If the American and South Vietnamese incursions into Cambodia happen to extend the war and make it less susceptible to solution by negotiations, that could be just what Peking wants. Perhaps the situation now really is less susceptible to political solution. Sihanouk has asked them to it. It seems the Russians never trusted the merciful Sihanouk and probably trust him even less now that he appears to be tucked into Mao's back pocket.

But Moscow wants to make

Sihanouk is acting as if Peking owned him. His speeches in Peking, the base of his government-in-exile, sound like a replay of Mao's as he pledges Cambodia to "protracted war."

Nations "who love freedom and justice," says Sihanouk, have recognized his government. This suggests that those failing to recognize him are not better than the "imperialists."

The Russians and Soviet-camp nations have not recognized the exile government though Sihanouk has asked them to it. It seems the Russians never trusted the merciful Sihanouk and probably trust him even less now that he appears to be tucked into Mao's back pocket.

Red China can consider it has little to lose by interminable guerrilla war in which it is not directly involved. It could reckon on that the losers would be the superpowers, who because of strains generated by such tension, are unable to agree on anything important and are pushed into a spiraling arms race. The superpowers must

Turn Back NATO Move To Meet With Russians

ROME (AP) — The United States and France joined today in holding back efforts to move the North Atlantic allies toward big meetings with the Soviet bloc on keeping the peace in Europe.

A French spokesman said Foreign Affairs Minister Maurice Schumann agreed with Secretary of State William P. Rogers in preferring East-West negotiations among pairs or smaller groups of countries.

Britain has been pushing for at least exploratory talks with as many European countries as possible, plus the United States and Canada. Smaller North Atlantic Treaty Organization members have been supporting Britain.

Today's verbal battle occurred at the climax of a two-day meeting of the North Atlantic Council. Twice a year these meetings bring together foreign ministers from the 15 countries of NATO.

The Soviet Union has been pressing for months for a big European security conference between Western and Commun ist nations, and a considerable number of West Europeans favor the idea of talking with the Russians. But U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and some other Western diplomats oppose such a conference, fearing the Soviets might use it to solidify their position in central Europe and that it would not bring real security any closer.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart proposed a compromise between a general conference and the kind of negotiations now going on between some Eastern and Western European nations. He said such discussions, which he called mutual exploratory talks, could be opened to neutral as well as Communist and Western nations and that one outcome might be a standing committee on East-West relations.

France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Turkey, Denmark, Greece and Luxembourg showed signs of favoring Stewart's proposal. Italy and Iceland were reported on the fence. Canada and Portugal appeared to have joined the United States and Germany in opposing the idea.

West Germany feels multilateral talks might interfere with its current talks with East Germany. Poland and the Soviet Union, the United States supports Bonn's position.

Dutch Foreign Minister Josef Luns was the only delegate who defended the U.S. action.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today signed a bill naming the Kaysinger Bluff project in Missouri after former President Harry S. Truman.

Central Missouri Electric Cooperative, North Highway 65, is scheduled to receive an extension of its microwave equipment as a result of a $11,536,000 loan made to Central Electric Power Co-op by the Rural Electrification Administration.

The announcement of the loan was made Wednesday.

Truman Green, R.E.A. manager, said the money would be used to build 237 miles of lines and 13 substations in the 19 counties served by the co-op.

The expansion program's basic purpose is to bolster power needs for 60,000 customers, according to Miss Irene Robinett, office manager of Central Electric Power Co-op in Jefferson City.

She said Pettis County's share of the new money would be used for microwave communications equipment.

George Ray, manager of R.E.A. here, said Pettis County would receive about $150,000 as its share of the loan.

He said it was possible that a substation might be built "somewhere in Pettis County in about two years." The loan covers a three-year span, he said.

Expansion of the local microwave facilities, he added, was necessary since supervisory control over substations was handled by microwave equipment.

With more substations, an expansion of the microwave system became essential, he said.

In Cooper County, she reported, a substation will be constructed at Blackwater. In Moniteau County, a new line

President To Confer With Fiscal Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with his top economic advisers today in advance of a dinner meeting with financial and business leaders from across the nation.

Forty financial and business leaders and some government economic officials have been invited to tonight's dinner, which the White House said will be an informal affair with no news coverage. The number was scaled down from a figure of 60 to 100 announced Tuesday.

"It is a private dinner, and the purpose is for the President to express things he has on his mind and to listen to what the businessmen have to say," press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen. "We feel that the informal aspect leads to more benefits."

The White House does not plan to issue a report on what is said, Ziegler reported. Major subjects for discussion are expected to be the current sluggish economy and reasons for the U.S. move into Cambodia.

Nixon met during the morning with Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy; Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and Budget Director R. P. Mayo.

All except Mayo will attend the dinner, but Ziegler said the meeting was not specifically prepared for it.

A White House spokesman said plans for the dinner were laid after Nixon met last week with Bernard Lasker, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange.

He announced the session Tuesday during a day of mixed economic news that varied between a stock market plunge to its lowest level in 7½ years and a Labor Department report that wholesale prices are rising less than last year.

On Capitol Hill, a House subcommittee voted 5-1 along party lines to require Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers to set wage and price guidelines each year and require Nixon to set up a watchdog agency to oversee them.

In addition, the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation predicted the federal budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, will show a $4.5 billion deficit instead of the administration's projected $1.3 billion even if all the Nixon's revenue-producing measures take effect.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved the administration's request for an $18 billion increase in the national debt ceiling to $395 billion.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Lasker told Nixon last week the Cambodia decision was widely misunderstood. Some analysts think doubts over administration policies have contributed to the sharp drop in the market.

The Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 10.20 points Tuesday to 631.16, the lowest since Nov. 19, 1962. It fell 20 points Monday and is more than 90 points under April 28, when Nixon told a group of visiting businessmen he would be buying stock if he had any money.

The House subcommittee on executive reorganization approved a bill sprinkled with the commanding word "shall," but

Scott Sees Amendment As 'Moot' With Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposition from sheriffs has delayed action on a bill to extend search and seizure powers to the Missouri Highway Patrol.

The bill squeaked through the House before the sheriffs' association got its opposition organized.

But Tuesday 10 sheriffs turned out to oppose the measure before the Senate Committee on State Departments. They were arrayed against the St. Louis and Kansas City chiefs of police who said troopers should have the same search and seizure powers as other law enforcement officers.

Sheriff Archie Walker of Howard County, a former member of the patrol, said the bill would allow patrolmen to make arrests in his county without his knowledge and would downgrade the office of sheriff.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons of Mississippi County, home county of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes who recommended the bill, predicted that if the bill passes the patrol will ask for 500 to 600 more men.

He said patrolmen use search and seizure authority in his county now but no case has ever been thrown out of court for that reason.

Sheriffs from Pettis, Callaway, Johnson, Lafayette, Montgomery, Henry, Carroll, and Cooper counties also put in an appearance.

Chief of Police Eugene Camp of St. Louis and Chief C. M. Kelly of Kansas City said patrolmen should have full law enforcement power, especially when called to duty in Kansas City as they have been twice in the last year.

Sedalia Police Chief William Miller said Wednesday he is in favor of the bill because "They (the patrol) need the power of search and seizure."

Miller said the county sheriffs were against the bill because it would give patrolmen powers of arrest, search and seizure which they don't have now.

"In this day and time," Miller said, "law enforcement officials need all the tools they can get." Sheriffs would also like to see the police departments without the power of search and seizure, he said.

Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, chairman of a committee opposing the bill, said Wednesday that sheriffs oppose the bill as it stands now. However, with some amendments, they would be in favor of it, he said.

Fairfax said the patrol has always exercised the power of search and seizure, during his time in office, in connection with "hot pursuit" cases, even

White House Tour is Led By Tricia

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS gave the nation its second television tour of the White House Tuesday night on "60 Minutes," devoting about 25 minutes to a stroll through the second floor living quarters of the presidential family.

Addison A. Taylor III, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor, Jr., 517 East 13th, has been selected one of two marshals to represent the school of medicine at the University of Missouri-Columbia, at commencement exercises June 2.

Tour guide was Tricia Nixon, the pretty blonde daughter of the President. She not only displayed familiarity with White House history but also showed poise before the cameras and a nice sense of humor.

With Mike Wallace and Harry Reasoner in tow and asking questions, Miss Nixon started on Harry Truman's balcony. She said the family occasionally sat there, ate there and often reversed the usual process by looking at the tourists.

The itinerary went through the formal reception room, a center hall, the family living room, dining room, the President's study and a VIP guest room. The family's own sleeping quarters were not shown.

In the course of the visit, Tricia and the color cameras revealed a lot about the Nixons' taste. The family rooms were light and splashed with color. The family living room had a comfortable chunky look about it with an oil portrait of the two girls painted when they were children.

The presidential family uses state furniture chosen from White House warehouses—their own furniture is in the San Clemente house. Until their own state china arrives they are using the set chosen by the Eisenhowers.

Asked if life in the White House was not like living in a goldfish bowl, Tricia smilingly admitted the occupants were on display, but added that "it is more like a goldfish bowl when you are out of it than when you live in it."

At the segment's end, Wallace opened a humidor on a table and asked if its contents were Cuban cigars.

"I don't think they are Cuban cigars," replied Tricia, dead pan. "Fidel Castro has not been here on a state visit for a long time."

Another segment of the program concerned itself with the estimated 500,000 children who each year run away from home—to Florida, to big cities including those with hippie colonies where crash pads and handouts are available.

It was a very light, quick treatment that did little more than skim the surface. The average age of the runaway is 15; more girls than boys cut out, and the youngsters are mostly from affluent suburban homes with problems relating to school, parents or friends.

It is hard to come to grips with such a complex subject in 15 minutes, but this is one of the abiding difficulties of the magazine-format actuality program.

Tricia Nixon's White House tour was certainly worth a full hour of time, and so was the report on runaway children.

Until breaking his leg two years ago, he had never been hospitalized.

Flag Abuse Law Term Too Vague

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — City Atty. James Buchele said Tuesday a city ordinance on display and treatment of the U.S. flag is "vague" and dismissed charges against Michael Sauter, 20, of Topeka, accused of violating it.

Sauter was arrested by a police officer for displaying a decal on his car that had the 13 stripes of the flag but had a peace symbol in place of the stars.

"The ordinance is vague and the question is raised as to whether a decal is actually a flag," Buchele said.

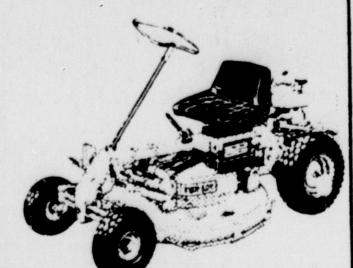

"If there was a flag on it or tearing it, I think the ordinance could be used . . .

"These are not hippies or radicals involved here."

Buchele said, "They are concerned, bright Kansas young people."

Ann Landers

Woman's Appearance Leads To Confusion

Dear Ann Landers: While in the Post Office Building this afternoon I had to go to the bathroom. I started through the door when a security officer stopped me and asked, "Where do you think you're going?" I said, "To the washroom...". He looked startled and mumbled, "I'm sorry, ma'am. I thought you were a man."

This has happened to me before and I hate it! I'm 5'10" and weight 165 pounds. My hair is smartly styled in a short bob because it looks best this way. I'm more comfortable in slacks and pantsuits and wear them whenever I can.

Ann, I am a married woman and the mother of two lovely children. I have no masculine tendencies whatever and I am 100 per cent normal. What can I do about this problem? — Upset

Dear Up: A woman who is 5'10", weight 165 pounds, wears a short bob and pantsuits is asking for it. If you'd lose some weight, let your hair grow and put on a skirt, you'd be less apt to be taken for a fell.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl, 14. My mother won't let me do anything on my own. No matter what I do she has to do it over or cut in and "help." I can't make a bed to suit her or sew a hem or iron a blouse. She finds fault with everything and makes me feel like a failure.

I wrote a letter tonight and asked Mom for a stamp. She asked who I had written to. When I said, "Ann Landers," she got mad and yelled, "I hope you told Ann Landers that you have your own phone, a new portable TV for your bedroom, a closet full of clothes and that we are sending you to Europe on a student tour next year." When I didn't answer, she screamed, "I can't imagine why you'd be writing to Ann Landers. With all the money we've spent on you, you should be the happiest girl in the world."

I tore up that first letter and wrote this one instead. I sure you know my problem. Can you help? — Too Many Things

Dear Too: Your mother is the one who needs help and unfortunately, she didn't ask for it. You sound like a smart chick who knows the score. I urge you to continue to do your best and not let your mother destroy your initiative or self-esteem. I hope every mother who reads this and sees herself will do something about it.

NEW YORK (AP) — Leon E. Panetta, who left a federal civil rights post claiming President Nixon fired him for pushing school desegregation, has been named an aide to Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Announcing the appointment Tuesday, Lindsay said Panetta would coordinate the work of the city's offices in Albany, the state capital, and Washington. His salary has not been fixed.

Panetta, 31, left the post of head of the Civil Rights Division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in February.

Living Costs Seen as Block To a Contract

DETROIT (AP) — The cost of living may turn out to be the No. 1 stumbling block in this year's new contract negotiations in the automotive industry.

The issue will be how closely wages should be tied to the government's consumer price index. This issue alone could trigger a major strike.

A cost-of-living formula has, since its inception in the 1948 automatic contracts, added 97 cents to what now is an average hourly rate of $4.02 at the Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

After a seven-week strike at Ford in 1967, the companies won a formula change that limits cost-of-living increases to eight cents an hour in any year.

Some 3,000 delegates rose and cheered at the UAW's April convention when their late president, Walter P. Reuther, asserted the union intended to win back the unlimited formula.

The old contracts expire Sept. 14. The convention mandated its negotiators to give restoration of the old cost of living formula top priority, along with a demand for a minimum $500 monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

worry about the possibility of a mutually destructive conflict, but China, meanwhile, can pursue its goal of leading a "third world" revolution.

It is little wonder that Moscow exploded with frustration. Pravda's May 18 editorial of 7,000 words was a cry of pain and outrage, accusing Mao of trying to take over the whole "national liberation movement." Mao, it said, dreamed of a "great China that would rule at least Asia, if not the world." It said Maoism betrayed world revolution. It hinted Peking was leading the Indochina Communists to the sort of ruin experienced by the Indonesian party when its Chinese-backed try for a coup exploded in 1965.

The real source of Soviet frustration seems to lie in the reality of China's swift action and its gain of considerable leverage in Indochina.

Says 'Tantrums'
By Students
Gone Too Far

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Judge Robert G. J. Hoester blasted the "temper tantrum mentality of some immature students" Tuesday and directed a St. Louis County Circuit grand jury to recommend ways to "protect the rights of the great mass of students who are law abiding."

"Every segment of society has been distressed by recent campus disruptions and certainly St. Louis County, with four large campuses, had its share," Hoester told the newly empaneled May term grand jury.

Hoester told the jury to recommend answers to these questions:

—When should police go to campuses to assist administrators, and which police force should be called first?

—Can the area of cooperation between police and campus administrators be improved?

—Are the security forces at the colleges and universities adequate in view of several years of student uprisings and unrest?

—Are there other areas in which county government officials may be able to assist college administrators?

Hoester said many students are "justly concerned with the morality of the war in Southeast Asia." But he added, "We cannot permit a small percentage of the violent students to place the lives of other students in jeopardy."

"The law must be ready and able to protect the great mass of young people who are law-abiding and desire a good education," Hoester said.

He was preceded in death by his wife.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday at the Muehlbach Funeral Home, Kansas City.

Burial will be in Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

Three Persons Are Indicted By Grand Jury

(Democrat-Capital Service)

CLINTON — Three persons have been indicted by the Henry County Grand Jury for burglary and stealing, according to the Henry County Sheriff's Department.

A spokesman for the department said that Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Schaefer, Independence, and Edward Chester Able, Rockville, are scheduled to appear for hearings June 8. All three have been released on bond.

The jury, which convened May 4 to investigate a rash of thefts, rustling and other incidents in the county, is meeting in regular session each Monday, as well as having special committee meetings.

The jury is also investigating destruction of property owned by Sheriff Wilbur Schmidt and threats to his life. Schmidt has theorized they were related to an investigation he has been conducting into cattle rustling activities in the county.

If the jury uncovers sufficient evidence to substantiate charges, indictments are returned and cases set for trial in Circuit Court.

He said the shipment of arms began on April 22.

But the formal determinations required by law were not made until May 21, nearly a month after the arms were shipped, Fulbright said.

He said the shipment of arms was underway on Cities Service's application for a $16 million rate increase in the four-state area.

Meantime, hearings are under way on Cities Service's application for a $16 million rate increase in the four-state area.

Girls Are Part of the Picture, Too

By THOMAS J. and ALICE FLEMING

In Psychology Today, Matina Horner recently reported on an experiment she conducted with two groups of bright young college students. She asked them to tell her a story based on one clue: "After first term finals, John finds himself at the top of his medical school class."

Her first group of students were men. They reacted very positively to the story clue. They wrote things such as "John obsessed all the girls. After some discussions with him, teachers and parents set to work to change their children's attitude. The following year Torrance returned with a different but similar set of science toys. This time we found none of this reluctance on the part of the girls: there was no difference in the expressed enjoyment of the activity of boys and girls." More significant, the creativity performance of boys and girls was almost identical.

Suggestions on Developing A Creative Home Atmosphere

If you have been following this series you will by now be aware of many of the ways in which you, the parent, can help develop your child's creativity. What follows may be regarded as a series of suggestions, or a checklist of reminders.

A. Your Home as a Creative Setting

There are many easy ways in which you can make your home a more creative setting, and without buying a 20 volume encyclopedia or equipping a photography darkroom!

1. Encourage a variety of activities such as learning games, discussions, and trips together as a family.
2. Provide your child with material on topics and hobbies in which he is interested. There are many books and records available through your local library. The government also has many inexpensive publications on a variety of subjects.
3. Together as a family try one of these "environmental experiments".
- a. Re-arrange your furniture according to a chosen shape, color scheme, purpose, or mood.
- b. Plan a supper on the basis of a color, a foreign country, or a gimmick such as a backwards supper.
- c. Create different moods in each room by varying the intensity and color of the lighting.
- d. Exchange roles for an evening: that is, the child or children are "parents" and the parents become the "children".
- e. Gather in one room and listen for five minutes to all the sounds. Then create a story about the sounds together.

B. Developing your Own Creativity

You as parents, are models for your child's development. Thus the more creatively active you are the more likely he will begin to develop his own creative interests. You can be creative in your job, your daily tasks, and the problems that you encounter, as well as your hobbies. The creative habit is both useful and fun! Here are some suggestions to help you get the creative feeling.

1. Do some things that you have never done before; for example, pursue a hobby you have in the past and gave up or one which has always interested you.
2. Be more open to your imagination and don't be afraid to express your "crazy" ideas. Play the "What If" game. Start the game with a "what if" statement such as "What if grass grew indoors?" Then each player in turn gives one result, such as, "You would have to weed the living room".
3. Try to see things from a new perspective. For example, try to draw your bedroom as an ant would see it, as a spider hanging from a ceiling would see it, as a dog would see it. Is there anything new you can discover about the room?
4. Try to build on other people's ideas. Play "Build a Story". One person begins the story with any sentence he likes. Each person in turn adds a sentence to develop the story. Try to be as imaginative as you can.
5. Always think of as many different ideas or approaches as you can. Whenever you have a problem or task jot down all the alternative solutions you can think of.
6. Don't be afraid to associate things that don't seem related. Try this Association Game. On 50 3 x 5 cards or slips of paper write the first 50 nouns you come across in any book. Turn the cards face down. In turn, each player selects any two cards and must give a relationship between the two. If he relates the two nouns successfully, he keeps the cards. The group is the judge of "success". If the person fails, the two cards are returned face down to the deck. When the deck is gone, the player with the most cards wins.
7. A good sense of humor is vital to creative activity. Relax and have fun!

is a conscientious young man who worked hard. He is pleased with himself. John has always wanted to go into medicine and is very dedicated ... John continues working hard and eventually graduates at the top of his class."

Miss Horner now took the same story to a group of coeds, and changed the name of the top-of-the-class medical student to Anne. The results were truly astonishing. One girl after another proceeded to tell horror stories about Anne.

"Anne starts proclaiming her surprise and joy. Her fellow classmates are so disgusted with her behavior that they jump on her in a body and beat her. She is maimed for life."

"Anne is an acne-faced bookworm. She runs to the bulletin board and finds she is at the top. As usual, she smarts off. A chorus of groans is the rest of the class's reply."

Anne doesn't want to be No. 1 in her class ... She feels she shouldn't rank so high because of social reasons. She drops down to ninth in the class and then marries the boy who graduates No. 1."

Creatively Equal

This experiment is a profound insight into the No. 1 problem parents of girls and girls themselves face in America — how to foster talent, creativity and the need to achieve when our whole social system is constantly telling women that achievement has fatal social consequences for them.

One of the pioneer creativity investigators, E. Paul Torrance of the University of Minnesota, noted in some of his earliest experiments how reluctant girls were to work with science toys. "I'm a girl; I'm not supposed to know anything about things like that," they exclaimed. Boys produced about twice as many creative ideas as girls in experiments involving these scientific materials.

At the same time, Torrance is convinced that the situation can be improved. He tells of visiting one school where this anti-science attitude practically more easily land a husband? This attitude is as outmoded as a Model T. Dr. Frederick F. Gaudet, recently retired as director of the psychological laboratory at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, is vehement on the subject of economic opportunity for women. "The opportunities are bright in a great number of fields," he says. "Would you believe banking? Two decades ago statistics on bank employees showed that men outnumbered the women three to one. Since then, the ladies have been gradually elbowing the gentlemen aside, not just on the lower levels of banking but in top positions as well. There are over a hundred women bank presidents, over 500 women bank vice presidents and several thousand women bank officers."

Another booming field for women, Dr. Gaudet believes, are the biological sciences where they have great opportunity for both research and teaching. Other vocational experts see opportunities for women in such unfamiliar titles as astrophysicist, electronic technician, computer programmer or aerodynamicist.

Second-Class Citizens?

More and more women are rebelling against the male-dominated society. Women sociologists recently pointed out bitterly, reporting at the Annual Sociology Convention, that women account for 37 per cent of the M.A. candidates, 30 per cent of the Ph.D. candidates, but only 4 per cent of the full professors and 1 per cent of the department chairmen in 188 major graduate schools. As George A. Miller pointed out in a recent article in Psychology Today, these women thinkers are almost certain to begin a psychological revolution because they are changing women's perceptions of themselves. This in turn changes their definition of what they can be, and will change their behavior. Thus, parents who insist on their daughter maintaining the passive standards of yesterday's women may be crippling her ability to participate as an equal with the women of tomorrow.

The facts of modern life make it graphically clear that women as well as men have the right and the ability to respond to the motto of new multi-talented approach to their potentialities: "Wherever I am or whatever I am doing, some kind of excellence is within my reach."

Tomorrow: Your child and the world of athletics.

Real Tragedy of Revolt

We often hear the warning that what America needs to fear from radical, revolutionary youth is not what they may do but what may be done in reaction to them.

That is, the threat of anarchy from the left could usher in tyranny from the right.

The warning is not to be dismissed lightly.

The hearts of millions were gladdened at the sight of head-bashing, flag-waving construction workers in New York giving some of the foul-mouthed American-damners their comeuppance the other day.

Positively savage things have been said in the wake of the Kent tragedy. To hear some people talk, or to read their letters to the editor, we should shoot a few students every day.

So the mood of repression is certainly present.

However, the danger posed by the revolutionaries is not what others may do to them, but what they are actually doing. And what they are doing is making one hell of a shambles of an area of society so important that it deserves to be called the "Sixth Estate"—the college population and the institutions they attend.

—Some 300 colleges and universities—a fifth of the nation's total—were forced to close their doors by radicals and were unable to finish their spring terms this year.

—Riots and disruptions have killed any chance of Congress even considering the administration's education aid bill this session, according to Washington observers.

—To add the colleges' financial plight, insurance is becoming almost prohibitive. As an example, fire insurance rates have been raised 40 per cent for all California schools because of campus militancy.

These are minor matters, however, compared to the damage being done in

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Children Hunger As Rice Is Burned

WASHINGTON — In their haste to get out of Cambodia on schedule, U.S. troops are burning captured rice that is urgently needed to feed hungry Vietnamese refugees.

The U.S. publicity machine has been grinding out stories about the capture of 2,500 tons of Viet Cong rice and its humanitarian use to feed the refugees. But my associate Les Whitten, writing from the combat zone, reports:

"Despite the artificial winds stirred up by the propagandists, the rice is one place and the refugees another. To be sure, about 37 perhaps 40 tons a day have been trucked or otherwise transported to the refugees who need at least 40 tons a day."

"But at this rate, the Army can't move the rice out of Cambodia fast enough to meet the July 1 withdrawal deadline. A maximum of 1,600 tons can be shipped across the Cambodian border in time. This would leave 900 tons of precious food to be destroyed."

U.S. troops are solving the problem, states Whitten, by burning the rice. "Schedules have been drawn up for U.S. destruction of the rice," he writes, "and the smoky fires one sees from a fighter plane over Cambodia is, sad to say, the food that might have saved children from starvation in less mad times."

Escalation Danger

There is ironic evidence that the U.S. pullout from Vietnam may result in escalating rather than reducing the allied war effort.

South Vietnamese military leaders, interviewed by Les Whitten, have made it clear they will use

The Sedalia Silver Cornet Band turned out last night and furnished our citizens with some splendid music. The progress of this band is astonishing, and their efficiency and skill is as complimentary to them as creditable to our city. The following gentlemen comprise its membership: Prof. Routon, leader, J. H. Shelly, J. D. McMullen, J. B. Elston, Horace Miller, P. S. Latsch, Robert Eichenberg, H. W. Inch, Walker Fry, Lum Hall, W. J. Kelk and L. L. Ilgenfritz.

Forty Years Ago

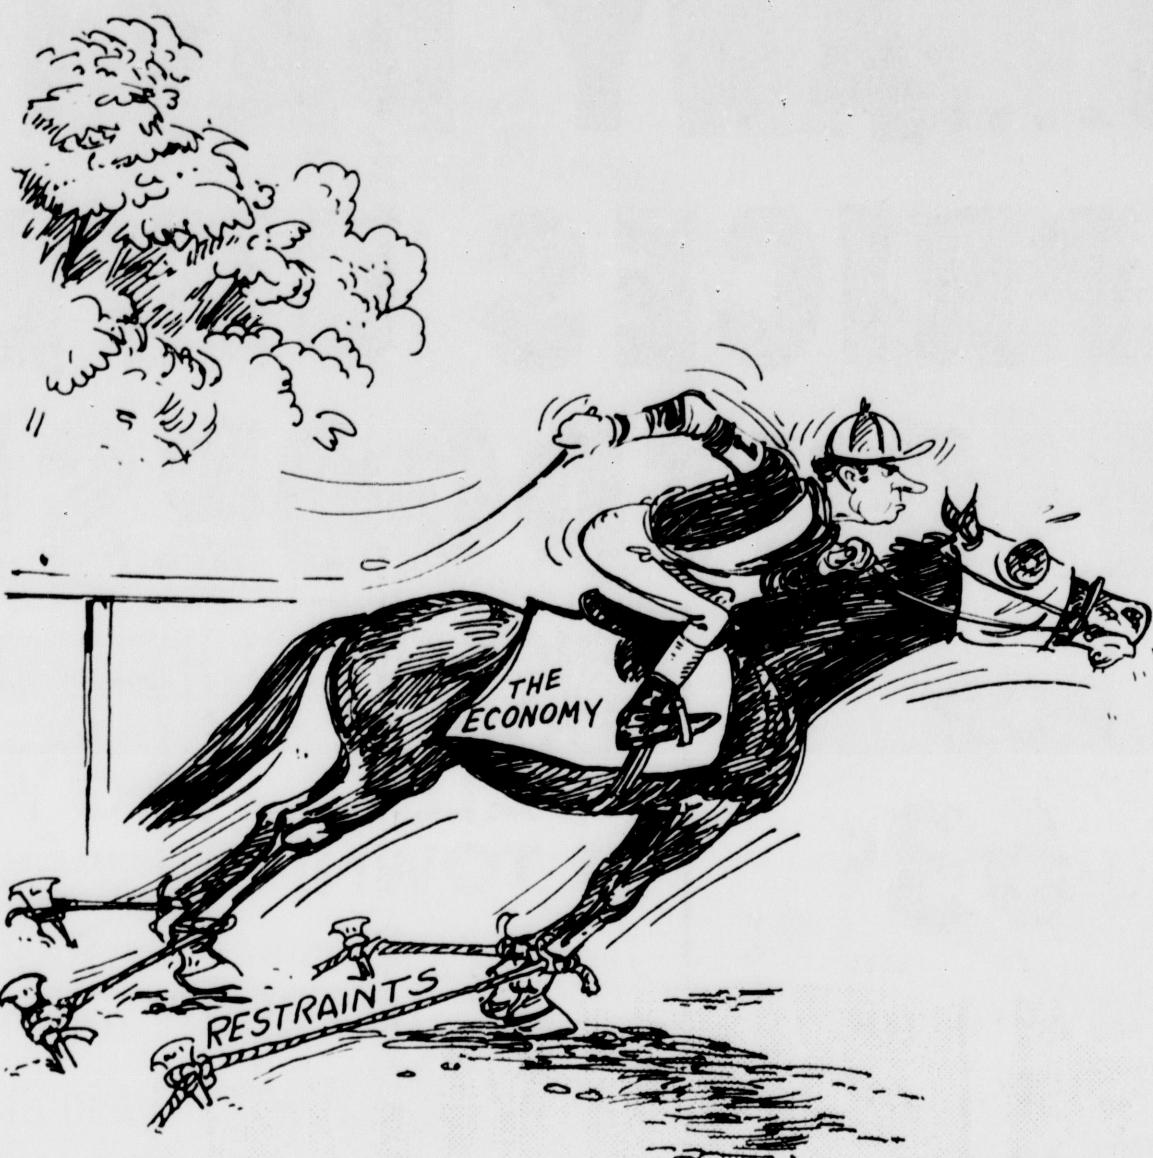

Mr. Heber Hunt, superintendent of the public school system of Sedalia, has just submitted a special report of the Public Schools of Sedalia. It is very elaborate and covers most thoroughly every phase of our city schools for a three year period. Mr. Hunt elaborates on the necessity of a Junior College, which everyone acknowledges is an outstanding necessity; and as a money investment will pay big returns for the money invested—but the Junior College will have to retire to a back seat with other progressive projects until such a time as Sedalia can see the light. (Nearly 40 years later.)

Mr. Hunt also spoke of a "kindergarten," but we are not even going to talk about that.

Big Gain for Nixon If Wallace Falls

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The notion has surfaced among some top Democrats that if George Wallace should lose the Alabama governorship run off June 2, the ultimate net gain to President Nixon for 1972 might be far less than is often forecast.

In part this rests on a view, underscored by several observers, that Louisiana's Gov. John McKeithen might try to jump into Wallace's shoes and pick off at least two of the five Deep South states Wallace won in 1968.

Telephone checks with southern appraisers cast heavy doubt on the prospect of success for McKeithen in such a venture.

Sources there say there is no question he is interested. But the judgment, while constituting a terribly early projection, is that the Louisiana governor could not pull it off. Says one observer:

"He is no full-time crusader like Wallace. Moreover, he has been a loyalist Democrat and relatively moderate on the subject of race."

If there is any kind of consensus among the queried southern observers (and some others), it is, then, that McKeithen lacks Wallace's missionary zeal, that he lacks the Alabaman's credentials as an antifool, and that, even if he had them, there are some influential people in his own state who would battle against their governor using Louisiana as a base for either a regional or a national political effort.

A veteran southern political analyst stands with the more conventional prior view that the Deep South states, plus Texas (lost by Nixon by only a point last time), would be "ripe plums" for the President's picking if George Wallace takes a bad fall.

More than just the South, however, is involved in the argument that a Wallace demise would produce small benefit for Nixon. In the four big northern industrial states the President captured narrowly, Wallace collected 487,000 votes in California, 467,000 in Ohio, 391,000 in Illinois and 262,000 in New Jersey. The convictions among key Democrats here is that, with the third-party candidate out of the picture, a high proportion of these votes would swing to the next Democratic nominee.

Many are properly assumed to be blue collar workers, though Wallace polled a surprisingly high rural vote in Ohio and some other northern states. Hubert Humphrey's late campaign rush was accomplished, indeed, by pulling thousands of blue collar workers back from Wallace.

If more such workers can be regained in 1972, obviously Nixon's position is threatened in the four big states he won. No Democratic leader worth his salt wants to say now, 29 months before the next election, that the President surely is going to lose two, three or all of these four.

That would amount to forecasting that he likely will be beaten in 1972 no matter what pickup he may make in the South. Only a fool would go out on that limb.

Yet the specifics of Democratic argument take some leaders that way. In the foreground elections of 1970, they believe labor will be held on their side by a worsening economy, despite much rank-and-file restiveness over youthful campus disorders and the racial struggle. Some labor officials agree, even as they themselves deplore the troubles.

It is accepted that Nixon may find a way to turn the economy around well before 1972, but the high-level Democratic guessing seems to be he will not. Furthermore, men like Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien think there is a steady disintegration of confidence in the President's leadership generally—and they give no sign they expect this alleged erosion process to halt after the 1970 voting.

The belief that, minus Wallace, his blue collar voters will go Democratic is a 1972 bet, no less. Underlying it is the conviction that they and other workers will steadily fault Nixon on his economics. GOP analysts privately fear the economic thing, too, and pray for an upturn.

If he somehow manages it, then many workers, freer floating than of old, may, in 1972 or earlier, vote their anger against youth and blacks. One expert here sees those as key now—and rates Nixon's status far higher than do top Democrats, notwithstanding war, Kent State and inflation. He does not yet see him in peril of losing the crucial big states.

The intelligence documents declare that "the policy of halting the bombing of North Vietnam, and the earlier policy of minimizing damage to North Vietnam's navigational network has undoubtedly given that country an important advantage over South Vietnam."

During the U.S. bombing of the north, "key industries dams and ports were left virtually untouched." Thus North Vietnam is effectively freed to build its economy without harassment, save only for manpower and monetary chains," says the report.

Indeed, nature has done more damage to Haiphong than has the war. Located in the Red River delta, the port is constantly silting. Dredging goes on continuously to keep it open for deep draft vessels.

The South Vietnamese Air Force sees this as a particular aid to any future bombing effort. By destroying the dredges, they could eventually close the port.

Putting the Bite on Mindless Tongue

By BETTY CANARY

I intend to become actively engaged in an endeavor called The Society for the Prevention of Making Inane Remarks.

There is a simple test devised to enable one to discover if he makes inane remarks. Upon observing a weeping child standing in front of a drugstore, a melted, ant-covered Popsicle on the sidewalk before him, you are ready for membership in the society if you say, "Oh! You dropped your Popsicle!"

(Saying, "May as well learn not to cry over spilled Popsicles!" is worse than inane. Remarking, "I'll bet those ants think today is Christmas and you're Santa Claus!" is better. Saying nothing or just handing the poor kid 15 cents is best.)

Once a person has his inane remarks to children under control, he can work on the habit of making remarks calculated to show others they aren't quite so mentally alert as he is.

I have been practicing the art of assuming my husband can see the obvious. And, hopefully, in the near future I'll stop saying to him, "Get the cream, please—it's in the refrigerator," or, "Bring the coffee, dear, the pot is on the stove." (After all, do I really think he's going to look in the breadbox?)

I may even convince him he need not explain the obvious to me, as he did yesterday when he handed me a claim slip and said, "Would you pick up my shirts? They're at the laundry." (Did he honestly believe that without his direction I'd have asked for them at the bowling alley?)

With this kind of attitude I'm sure we'll soon be to the point where we no longer make senseless remarks to each other at all. When I am washing windows, he won't greet me with, "Washing the windows this afternoon?"

When he drops a light bulb in the kitchen sink I won't say, "You dropped a light bulb in the sink!"

If he ever slips and falls down the stairs, I am certain I won't rush to him and exclaim, "Honey! You fell down the stairs!"

And, from this point, it will be only a tiny step to refraining from remarking about the Almost Obvious. He won't say things like, "I borrowed $10—I got it from your billfold." And I won't say, "May I use your pen—it's there in your coat pocket," as if he's too stupid to see it.

Other than fewer frayed nerves, I'm not sure what this good habit is going to do for us. Provide a considerable savings in time, perhaps. And, what to do with this extra time? I might take more walks. And, thank heaven, he won't say to me as he did this morning, "Wear your raincoat when you go out—it's raining outside."

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Dangerous Occupations Include Farm Workers

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Surprisingly enough, farming in this mechanized age is now rated as one of the most dangerous occupations in this country—a close second to the building trades. Among the approximately four million farm workers, 2,700 deaths and 230,000 injuries occur annually.

Overturned tractors lead the list of causes. Such accidents are usually caused by operating at excessive speeds, especially on uneven ground. The highest rates are reported from mountainous areas and the lowest from areas with the least usage of heavy mechanical equipment.

It is essential that all farm workers know the fundamentals of first aid because they work at a great distance from medical facilities and often work alone, without supervision and without adequate knowledge of the hazards involved in the use of their machines. One unalterable rule for tractor operators should be "No Riders." Farm accidents are preventable but the price of safety is constant vigilance.

Q — My doctor says I have a nervous stomach. I took belladonna but it made me sick, so I was given an antispasmodic but it didn't help either. Do you know of anything that might help me?

A — So-called nervous stomach may be due to various causes, but there is usually an underlying emotional disturbance. Unless this can be resolved, no medicine is going to help you much.

Q — I recently had a sub-total gastrectomy with an anterior gastrojejunostomy. What does this mean?

A — A part of your stomach was removed and a loop of the small intestine just beyond your duodenum, the jejunum, was attached to the front of your stomach in such a way that food can pass directly into your jejunum.

Q — A recent X ray shows that I have an overly large colon. What causes this? Is any treatment necessary?

A — In most cases this condition, megacolon, is a congenital abnormality but it may occur as a result of aging in persons who are over 60. The only treatment usually required is an occasional enema. But instead of eight ounces of warm tap water, you should use one pint of water in which one-third teaspoon of salt has been dissolved.

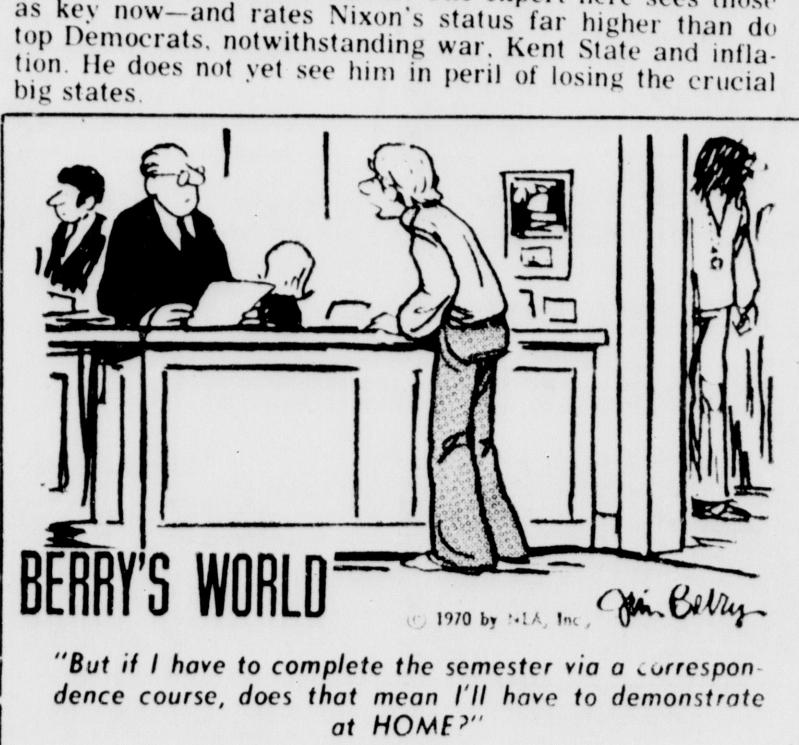

Each one will know that your only problem is in trunks and neither one is going to help you out.

You also know that East did not start with ace-jack-eight-two of spades. In that case, he would have covered dummy's 10 with the jack and been sure of two trump tricks. You have no play at all if West is waiting with both ace and jack. Thus, you have a straight 50-50 guess with nothing at all to help you out.

They came and did enjoy it, and somehow the couple just kept the little fellow after they left. During a big storm it was in a tree just having a terrible time. The woman of the house felt she should bring it in, and she did. She put it under a tub with a stick to keep the tub up enough to give it air. The next day she put it outdoors and it seemed very contented until evening. Then it came to the door and wanted in.

And what did she do? She brought it in again and put it under the tub for the night. Only one night and the chicken was already spoiled. H. L.

POLLY'S POINTERS

She Has Trouble With Dress Patterns

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—When making a garment for myself, I always have trouble getting it to fit across the back. They are always tight and uncomfortable. Using the next-size-larger pattern makes them too large. A ready-made, size 14 dress usually fits quite well but a size 14 pattern fits too tightly. Would widening the pattern on each side across the shoulders the length of the back be the place to make the proper adjustments?—MARION

DEAR POLLY—I am answering A. Y., whose white, upright freezer stands out like a sore thumb in her kitchen where other appliances have a coppertone finish. It is built-in, the door can be removed and painted to match the other things at an automobile body and paint shop. This would cost only about half as much as having the entire freezer done, if that isn't necessary. We left our frozen food at a local ice plant while the job was being done. I have also seen pretty, adhesive-backed, plasticized paper used successfully for a less costly but less permanent job.—MRS. R. L. Z.

DEAR POLLY and A. Y.—The white freezer can be painted to match the coppertone appliances in the kitchen. Be sure to sand the finish before painting. We had a man who mixes car paint mix samples in several shades for us and tried them on the back of the freezer to see which was the best match for the other appliances. We used a combination of brown, white and pink, which was sprayed on, but it could doubtless be carefully brushed on.—MRS. A. A. S.

DEAR POLLY—The lighting fixture in our kitchen holds two bulbs and is not too easy to take apart and put back together again. When one bulb burns out, we always put in two new bulbs so we do not have to take the fixture apart so soon. I return the partially used bulb to a carton but mark it "U" so it will only be put in a lamp or other place where changing would be easy. I always clean the fixtures when they are apart for bulb changing.—MRS. H. L.

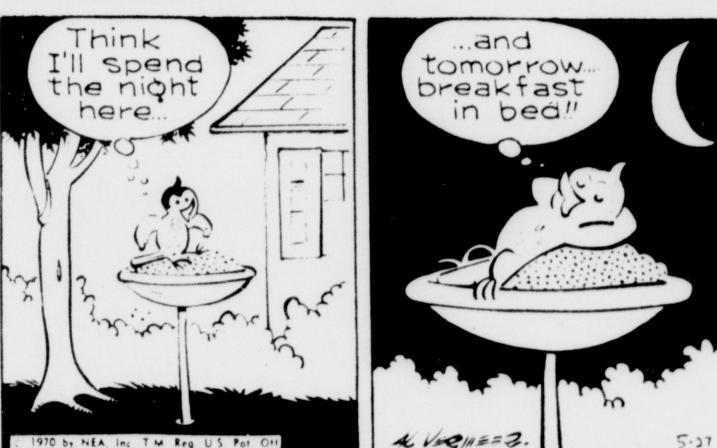

DEAR POLLY—Next time you buy a large can of sardines, use a can opener to open it and save the large key. It makes a perfect gadget to place on the end of a tube of toothpaste for a perfect roll-up. Neatness prevails in the bathroom and this is also an economy, for the toothpaste can be used right to the end.—CELESTIA

After calling 10 witnesses in five days, including Flood, Hall of Famers Jackie Robinson and Hank Greenberg and the commissioners of pro football, basketball and hockey, the defense rested Tuesday.
Motions by Mark Hughes, baseball's chief lawyer, to dismiss the case, were denied by Judge Cooper who ordered the case to continue "until all the evidence has been adduced."

Flood, former St. Louis Cardinals center fielder who refused to accept a trade to Philadelphia, is charging baseball with violations of federal and various state antitrust laws and common law and claims the reserve system constitutes "peonage and involuntary servitude" and deprives him of the freedom of labor.
Hughes claimed Flood's lawyers had failed to prove the peonage and slavery charges and insisted it had not shown a violation of antitrust rules.
Jay Topkis, speaking for Flood in the absence of Arthur Goldberg, his chief attorney, asked the case be continued to learn what kind of an explanation can baseball come up with to explain its fantastic system of regimentation.
Topkis praised Flood's sacrifice of refusing to play because his "freedom is worth more." He added, "I don't think this is a claim to which an American Court can turn a deaf ear."
Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Basketball Association, said his sport did not have a play-out-the-option clause, like pro football. He said the NBA did allow a player under contract for one year to play a second year without a contract while negotiations are going on. He said some players had "jumped contracts" and

After calling 10 witnesses in five days, including Flood, Hall of Famers Jackie Robinson and Hank Greenberg and the commissioners of pro football, basketball and hockey, the defense rested Tuesday.
Motions by Mark Hughes, baseball's chief lawyer, to dismiss the case, were denied by Judge Cooper who ordered the case to continue "until all the evidence has been adduced."

Says One-Third of Indy Field Has Chance

By LLOYD RUBY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — I figure 10 or 12 drivers are capable of winning the Indianapolis 500 this race, even though there are 33 guys right now who think they can win the race or else they wouldn't even be in the starting field.

But I really feel there are only 10 or 12 individuals who will be competitive as long as their equipment holds up. In that respect, I think my car is stronger than any car here.

The guys I think will be competitive right from the start are Al Unser and his brother Bobby, who won the race in 1968; A. J. Foyt, a three-time winner at Indy and one of the sport's greatest competitors; Mario Andretti, last year's winner; Roger McCluskey; Joe Leonard, who still holds the track qualifying record; Gordon Johncock, Johnny Rutherford, Art Pollard and Dan Gurney.

The Unsers, Foyt, Andretti and McCluskey always charge. They like to run up front and always make an effort to get there. I figure these guys will be fighting it out up front while I'm trying to get up there with them from 25th starting position.

I'll tell you, I enjoy racing Al, A. J. and Roger any time, especially at Indy. I don't mind running with these three guys side by side flat out all day long. I have a lot of confidence in their ability.

I think Leonard will be a factor this year. He has top equipment. Johncock hasn't done anything spectacular so far this month but he always comes on strong in the race. Rutherford is starting on the front row this time, but I really don't know what he'll do. Pollard could be a factor and it's hard to say what Gurney will do with the new equipment he brought this year.

The worst problem I can foresee in the race is the guys whose equipment won't be capable of maintaining the pace. There's a tendency to overextend yourself when your equipment isn't up to it.

That causes problems. You don't have to ask for trouble here ... you automatically get it. Without the experience of running in the oil after the track gets slick, many guys will find themselves in trouble real quick.

But everybody has to run on the same race track and I don't mean to make bad remarks about rookies or guys with little experience getting in the way. The guys running in their second or third race are the same guys who will be running at the front in a few years. After all, the drivers starting up front Saturday are the same guys who were getting in everybody's way a few years back. I probably did it myself. Naturally, I didn't think so at the time.

Redlegs Drop Two to Padres

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

By the time the hunters finally caught up with Clarence Gaston and Nate Colbert, the hounds had Charlie Fox by the throat.

Gaston lashed six straight hits, including two triples and a three-run homer, before Cincinnati got him out and Colbert walloped a pair of two-run homers before a stray pitch knocked him out as the San Diego Padres stunned the Reds 8-1 and 4-1 in a Tuesday night double-header.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, meanwhile, brought Fox, San Francisco's new manager, crashing to earth with a 20-hit salvo that riddled the Giants 19-3.

It was the Dodgers' biggest offensive binge and the worst beating absorbed by the Giants since both clubs moved to the West Coast in 1958. And it was a shattering experience for Fox, following the Giants' double-header sweep over San Diego last Sunday in his managerial debut.

In other National League games, Philadelphia nipped Montreal 3-2; Atlanta beat Houston 5-3; the New York Mets trounced St. Louis 5-1 and the Chicago Cubs downed Pittsburgh 6-3.

Gaston, a .230 hitter for the Padres last year as a rookie, banged triples in the first and fifth innings of the opener. Each time, Colbert followed with a homer off Cincinnati pitcher ace Jim Merritt, giving him 16 for the season and a share of the major league lead.

Two singles by Gaston and a three-run homer by Ollie Brown

Top Names Skip Memphis Open

MEMPHIS (AP) — The absence of many of golf's top names left a wide-open, multiple-man scramble for the favorite's role in the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open.

Gary Player, the number two man on the money list this year, has gone home to South Africa. And the three career $1 million winners on the tour—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper—also are skipping the event that starts Thursday.

With those giants out, there is a flock of prime candidates for the $30,000 first prize, including Lee Trevino, Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Dan Sikes, Tommy Aaron, Homero Blancas, Gene Little, Miller Barber, Don January, Bob Lunn and Lee Elder.

All are top contenders but the outspoken Hill may be the No. 1 choice on what he calls one of his favorite courses. He has won two of the last three titles here, including the last one.

Aaron ended a frustrating 10-year search for a title last week when he scored his first official triumph at Atlanta.

Sikes finished second and said he thinks he has solved a year-long slump while Beard won the Tournament of Champions and appears to have regained the form that made him the 1969 leading money winner.

Also on hand are U.S. Open Champion Orville Moody, British Open champ Tony Jacklin and PGA titleholder Ray Floyd.

Only a handful in the 150-man field got in practice rounds on the relatively short 6,466-yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club Course Tuesday.

Most of the rest were undergoing local qualifying for the U.S. Open.

BATTING—Clarence Gaston, Padels, belted two triples and two singles in the first game and a three-run homer and single in the nightcap as San Diego took two from Cincinnati 8-1, 4-1.

PITCHING—Earl Wilson, Tigers, blanked the New York Yankees on four hits 3-0.

Walnut Hills Grand Opening Is Saturday

The grand opening of the new Walnut Hills Country Club will be held Saturday.

Club pro Jim Hatfield said that the facilities will be opened early in the morning for those wishing to golf Memorial Day.

The 18-hole, grass green course features watered fairways and greens, as well as much of the natural terrain, which the facility was built around.

According to Hatfield, free golf lessons for boys and girls will begin at the course Tuesday.

These lessons will be available to both children of members and non-members. He stated that a more concrete schedule of when the lessons would be held will be announced once it has been determined how many young people will be participating.

Memberships are still available for the current year.

Information on the memberships may be obtained from the pro shop, located at the course.

going to pitch until 5:30," said Grzenda, who got to start when Casey Cox showed up sick. "I was happy. I always wanted to start in the big leagues. And the surprising thing was that I wasn't nervous. I thought I would be.

"I hadn't started a game anywhere since 1963 and I hadn't pitched a complete game since before my arm got hurt (1959). I was disappointed I couldn't finish."

Cox was well enough to get the last two outs after Grzenda surrendered a single to Carl Yastrzemski and a homer to Tony Conigliaro with one out in the ninth.

Along the way he made it to the majors for four games with Detroit in 1961, 20 with Kansas City in 1964 and 21 in 1966 and 11 with the New York Mets in 1967 before spending a full season with the Minnesota Twins a year ago.

Even that didn't last and Grzenda was shipped off to the Washington Senators shortly before the start of the 1970 campaign. But, even with his varied travel background, it came as something of a surprise when he showed up on the mound in Boston's Fenway Park Tuesday night ... as a starting pitcher, no less.

But the 32-year-old left-hander, pitching in a park with has an unfriendly history where southpaws are concerned, limited the hard-hitting Red Sox to one hit for eight innings and the Senators made off with a 7-5 triumph.

"I didn't know for sure I was going to pitch until 5:30," said Grzenda, who got to start when Casey Cox showed up sick. "I was happy. I always wanted to start in the big leagues. And the surprising thing was that I wasn't nervous. I thought I would be.

Willie Horton's three-run homer in the ninth inning broke up a brilliant pitching duel between Earl Wilson of the Tigers and Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees. Both hurled four-hitters. Horton, who also hit a three-run shot Monday night, connected following a walk to pinch hitter Gates Brown. Al Kaline's sacrifice and an intentional walk to Norm Cash.

The White Sox took a 3-0 lead over the Royals, one of the runs coming on Ossie Blanco's first major league hit, before Wilbur Wood snuffed out a seventh-inning uprising to preserve Jerry Janeski's fourth victory.

Reshuffle In Oscar Members

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A year ago, Gregory Peck indicated that stodgy old Oscar was going to get a facelift. Now it has happened.

In recent times, critics have accused the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences of being establishment-oriented Oscar's gaze, they claimed, was toward Hollywood's golden but long-gone past.

These critics pointed to the recent Academy awards, which seemed to recognize the old-style entertainment movies while ignoring the excitement of the new cinema.

The accusations seemed to have some merit. Each year after the nominations have been announced, the Academy screens the nominated films in its theater. A glance over the audience at those screenings gives an indication of the membership. Many of those present have long retired from film making.

Gregory Peck has been no mere figurehead as president of the Academy. He was aware of the accusations of the geriatric nature of the Academy electorate, as well as the claims that pressures can be applied to swing votes.

Peck was also aware that there would be hurt feelings and widespread indignation if the Academy made any abrupt changes in its membership.

"The Board of Governors instituted a two-year study of the member roster," said a spokesman. "The Board realized that the passage of time had made some branch affiliations inappropriate. A committee went through the list, branch by branch and member by member."

The review brought changes in status for 497 members. Forty-nine were changed from one branch to another—for example, a writer who had become a director. One hundred and nine were switched from branches to being members-at-large. They were mostly members who had been inactive in films; they can now vote for the awards but not for the nominations in their own crafts.

Three hundred and thirty-nine members were made associates, which means they cannot vote for awards. The Academy has also tightened up the rules on qualifications for new members: more experience in films will be required.

Last week Peck announced another change: the members of the public relations branch were being switched to associate membership, thus depriving them of voting for the awards. The Academy president reasoned that the publicists do their major work after films are completed and thus have no hand in the creative process.

"An eight-man committee headed by Daniel Taradash of the writers' branch was appointed to review complaints about the changes," said an Academy spokesman. "So far only 13 out of the 567 changes have been reversed."

The new setup reduces the Academy electorate from 3,172 to 2,802. Peck believes that the reduced total will be more responsive to what is current in the film world.

But the real challenge lies ahead. Not only must the Academy revise its present membership, it must also attract the young film makers who are bringing excitement to the movie business today. So far they show little inclination to join the Academy or anything else that smacks of the establishment.

World's Money Markets Echo Wall Street Plunge

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plunge in this country is sending tremors through most of the world's major financial markets.

The London stock market dropped Tuesday to its lowest level in three years. The Financial Times index dropped 13.8 points to 315.5, last reached in March 1967. Nearly all industrial leaders showed losses.

British financial writers called the slump on the London market "Black Tuesday" and blamed falling prices entirely on New York.

Meanwhile, the market in the United States took another drubbing Tuesday that sent the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks down 10.20 points, to 631.16, its lowest level since Nov. 19, 1962. The loss meant that the blue-chip indicator had plummeted over 70 points in the last five sessions.

In Toronto, the stock market touched a four year low Tuesday, with industrials off 3.67 at 141.61. Prices on the exchange Monday had suffered their sharpest drop since 1963.

The Montreal stock market closed lower although the declines were considerably less than those recorded Monday when the industrial index plunged more than six points to a three year low. Financial analysts blamed the slide in good measure on the crisis in Wall Street.

Stocks on the Paris Bourse fell over a wide range, and continued to do so despite a statement of confidence by the French finance minister.

Wall Street is in full disarray," said the evening paper Paris Presse. It added that a mere stock exchange crisis had developed into a crisis of confidence in the Nixon administration.

In Switzerland, the Zurich market closed sharply down with losses in all sectors. Financial writers there also said that Wall Street's plunge, which triggered the European declines, were caused by a loss of faith in the administration.

Prices on the Frankfurt exchange declined across the board in heavy selling. Brokers reported an increasing number of foreign sell orders. And in Amsterdam, all foreign stocks closed lower.

The only major stock markets to withstand the downward pressure emanating from Wall Street were Tokyo and Milan. Both exchanges enjoyed late rallies.

The Tokyo exchange's index rose 0.75 to 149.60.

Milan's stock market closed mixed.

Bradbury K. Thurlow, analyst for Hopper Bros., a New York brokerage firm, said the drop in foreign stock prices was due to "Europeans who are saying, 'We've got a lifetime opportunity to buy U.S. stocks at bargain levels.' So they're dumping their own stocks, causing prices to fall," he said.

Stocks on the Paris Bourse fell over a wide range, and con-

Moon Rock May Reflect Age of the Solar System

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A rock which may date from the birth of the solar system has been found among the moon samples brought to earth by Apollo 12, officials here say.

The rock, about the size of a lemon, "has an apparent age of 4.6 billion years, clearly the oldest rock yet found on the moon," and older than any rock found on earth, the officials said.

Some meteorites, which land on the earth and moon from space, have been found to be 4.5 to 4.6 billion years old, but the Apollo 12 rock is the oldest ever discovered to be native to the earth or to the moon.

"To discover a rock on a planet that is the same age as the planet is very significant," Dr. Paul Gast, chief of lunar and earth sciences at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said Tuesday. The find indicates that the surface layers of the moon have changed very little since the formation of the solar system, he added.

He said the rock has about 20 times as much uranium, thorium, and potassium as any other lunar rock examined. He said its natural radiation, which is harmless, is also much higher than the other rocks.

Gast said tests will be conducted on the rock to determine if it contains the decay product of iodine 129, a short-lived and now extinct isotope which is thought to have been produced during the birth of the solar system.

Since meteorites also contain decayed iodine 129, he said, the origin of the moon and the meteorites would be linked.

"It would support the present theory that all the planets were formed at the same time," he said.

Anthony J. Calio, director of science and applications at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said the rock looked no different from the others in the Apollo 12 moon samples.

He said the unique nature of the rock was discovered when scientists processed it through the radiation counting laboratory. Its high degree of natural radiation caused the scientists to set it aside for a closer look.

The rock was later cut and 11 scientists conducted isotopic studies on it, trying to determine its age.

Gast said the age was determined by measuring the ration of strontium 87 and rubidium 87. Strontium 87 decays into rubidium 87 over a known period of time, establishing an atomic clock which can be used to measure age.

Gast said tests will be conducted on the rock to determine if it contains the decay product of iodine 129, a short-lived and now extinct isotope which is

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Missourians were on Tuesday's Defense Department casualty report from Southeast Asia.

Zooming Hospital Costs Give Spur to Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prediction that hospital costs will reach $1,000 per day in the nation's major cities in 10 years has spurred new efforts in the Senate Finance Committee to put reins on medicare and medicaid outlays.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., told a reporter as committee hearings resumed Tuesday: "We simply must find some effective way to control these costs."

They affect all segments of the health industry—physicians, hospitals, nursing homes, and other providers of services."

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., senior Republican on the panel, said he feared the spiraling costs of the two big health programs could affect the solvency of the federal government.

Ribicoff said the prediction about 1980 costs were made by highly competent sources—Mark Berke of San Francisco, former president of the American Hospital Association, and Dr. Philip Lee, former assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs in the Health Education and Welfare Department.

He said they forecast daily costs of $400 in rural areas, $600 in medium-size cities, and $1,000 in major urban centers.

The $1,000 figure would be almost 10 times the highest rate now, even in New York City.

Jack A. L. Hahn of Indianapolis, AHA president-elect, disagreed that hospital costs would reach such heights in the next decade except in very special situations.

However, Hahn conceded costs were going to continue to increase sharply. AHA studies show that the average cost will likely reach $119.50 in 1973 compared with $81.66 per inpatient day this year, he told the panel.

When asked if the average person would pay such fees, Hahn said he did not believe the individual could do so.

He is going to have to spread the costs over his entire lifetime through some form of insurance and they are going to have to be spread over all of society, he said.

Hahn said hospitals are particularly vulnerable to cost hikes because of their intensive use of labor and the need to purchase advanced and extremely expensive equipment.

One way to help old people, the AHA spokesman said, would be to combine the hospitalization and doctors services of medicare and eliminate the monthly fee charge for the latter. This fee, now $4, goes up to $5 on July 1.

If this were done, however, the payroll tax which now finances only hospitalization services would have to be raised.

Death Toll Estimate

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimated today that between 350 and 450 persons will be killed in traffic accidents over the Memorial Day weekend.

The period covered by the estimate is from 6 p.m. local time Friday until midnight Sunday, roughly two days but actually 54 hours.

Prices Increase As Machines Age

By PETER WEAVER

Q — You stated that a maintenance contract on a washer-drier combination runs about $25 a year. I bought a combo from a department store in 1966 and the maintenance contract cost $29.95. In 1968 it cost $49.95 and in 1970 it cost $59.95. Why the jump in contract costs? — G. C., North Hollywood, Calif.

A — Many readers have asked why they have to pay more than my "average" prices quoted for new machine maintenance contracts. These maintenance contracts are somewhat comparable to insurance. The older a machine gets, the more you have to pay. At a certain stage for machines such as a drier or color TV, it might be a good idea to discontinue the contract. For others, such as air-conditioners and heating systems, it's a good idea to keep the contract in force.

Because of varying labor costs, maintenance contract prices differ around the country. If you have extra gadgets on a machine, such as remote control on a TV or automatic cleaning device on a stove, you have to pay more.

Q — Can you tell me the alternate brand names under which Libby, Del Monte, Carnation and Stokely Van Camp put out their products? If not, could you give me a lead on where I could obtain this information? — Mrs. M.C.H., Oxon Hill, Md.

A — The National Canners Assn. says it's often difficult to find out which company actually puts out each local or regional brand. They sell their canned goods to a chain of stores or to a distributor and then a store's own label is attached.

If you'd like to know whether your store's own brand is made by somebody like Libby or Del Monte, the best thing to do is ask the store manager. He is usually proud of the fact that his store's brand is made by one of these nationally known companies.

Sen. Eagleton Says Violence Not Acceptable

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., in a statement issued from his Washington office Tuesday, said the claim that violence can be a useful, productive and creative tool "is baloney."

"Violence will always be anathema to the democratic process. Violence breeds more violence. As a concept, it is immoral in a democratic society. As a means, it is counter-productive," he said.

Eagleton quoted a recent speech by Prof. Sydney Hook of New York University in answering the rationale that violence is as American as cherry pie. "One could allege that murder is as American as cherry pie and at one time lynching was as American as cherry pie. Does that make them praiseworthy?" the senator asked.

Eagleton said "one misreads history if one concludes that violence has been the major cause of social reform." He cited the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as a nonviolent reformer whose gains were the greatest in the civil rights movement.

Q — I enjoyed your article on tires. Would you follow it up by giving us some information on the amount of air one should carry in tires? Also, how do you know whether you are getting the octane you pay for in cut-rate gasoline? — Mrs. C.W.F., Miami, Fla.

A — Your automobile owner's manual will give you the tire pressure you should need for a new car. Tires coming out now have to have air requirements stamped on the side. Some delivery truck and taxi-fleet operators claim that putting a couple of extra pounds in your tires makes them last longer. Always carry more air for heavy loads.

As for the octane ratings (premium, regular and so forth) in cut-rate gasolines, the Virginia State Agriculture Department recently found that octane ratings for various cut-rate gasolines were often more accurate than they were for the big brand names. Why? The private brand dealers might be more careful in checking on the octane rating of the gasoline they buy from distributing trucks to be sure they are getting what they paid for.

Q — I noted in your column that F. M. of Kane, Ill., was concerned because she had sent money into Bel-Doxin Inc., and was concerned about this being a legitimate purchase. I sent in $10 and finally received the medicine. Everything is legitimate. — Mrs. L. B. Boston

A — I received notice from New York State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz that he has obtained a court injunction against Bell-Doxin to prevent the company from "falsely advertising that the pill (made by Bel-Doxin) enables users to lose weight... and that users could lose up to 84 pounds in two months."

Q — You replied recently to a letter inquiring about a hearing aid "recommended" by the government. The government doesn't recommend hearing

Term For Man In a Shooting Of a Boy, 11

GAINESVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Richard Brown, 30, was sentenced Tuesday to two years in prison as a result of the shooting of an 11-year-old boy at Springfield, Mo.

Brown was tried in Gainesville on a change of venue as an accessory after the fact in a mayhem charge against Earl Murray, 32.

Murray has admitted he fired a shot that wounded Dewayne Cantrell, 11, on March 25, 1969. Murray testified he shot into the Cantrell home to scare the boy's father, who was crossing picket lines to work at the Royal McBee plant in Springfield.

Murray is serving a three-year prison term.

There was evidence that Brown was in the car at the time of the shooting.

Registration Books Open For Election

Pettis County Clerk Jim Green said Tuesday that the registration books are open for Sedalians to register to vote in the next election.

Green said he did not know how long the books would remain open. State law requires the books to be closed at least 28 days before an election. The next scheduled election is the Aug. 4 primary, but Green pointed out it is possible for another election to be called before then.

State law requires new voters to have lived in Missouri at least one year and in Pettis County 60 days before registering.

Green pointed out that residents who have changed address must notify the clerk's office and anyone who has changed their name through marriage or otherwise, must register.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the most comprehensive studies ever undertaken on how big block trades affect stock market prices are nearing completion.

More than two years after it was created by Congress to investigate the power of the big blocks, a Securities and Exchange Commission group expects to present its findings on Nov. 1.

And a University of Pennsylvania professor's 1½-year study on the impact of institutional investing in the market is slated for publication in late July.

The results of the studies will undoubtedly cause considerable stirring in the financial community. Both were launched amidst growing governmental and securities industry concern that the buying and selling of large blocks—10,000 or more shares—tends to make individual stock prices highly volatile.

The major fear was that the small investor may not be getting a fair shake in a market increasingly dominated by institutional participation.

Lacking the resources of institutions, it was felt the little guy may be on the losing end of fast price fluctuations when holders of a large number of shares get in or out of a stock.

If anything, the problem has become more severe since the studies began.

The New York Stock Exchange reports a 37 per cent jump in block volume in 1969 over 1968. This means, according to the exchange, a big block transaction crossed its ticker on the average of once every four minutes last year.

Industry observers say the institutions—mutual and pension funds, insurance companies, trusts and endowments—are now responsible for about 95 per cent of the block trades. And they say trading by institutions accounts for over 50 per cent of the daily volume on the New York Stock Exchange.

While the SEC and the professor are analyzing daily stock prices, they are also looking into broader aspects related to institutional investing and big block trading.

The SEC study, being done under a congressional grant of $875,000, is zeroed in on the institutions themselves. Its 50-member, full-time staff wants to know about how institutions get their funds, how the funds are managed and the relationship between the institutions and the companies in which they own shares.

Prof. Irwin Friend's study, being done at the Wharton School of Finance under an approximate $75,000 grant from the 20th Century Fund, is centered on the mutual funds.

Friend particularly wants to know if mutual funds are channelling their investments into companies that are most beneficial to the economy. In other words, investing heavily in the steel industry may be better for the economy than large investments in the candy industry.

Neither Friend nor the SEC are willing to discuss their preliminary findings. An SEC spokesman says its report is confidential until it goes to Congress.

John Cunniff is on vacation.

Poverty Group Sets Membership Meet

The annual corporation membership meeting of Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corporation will be held at 8 p.m. Monday at Stewart Chapel on the Missouri Valley College Campus.

The meeting is intended to give M.V.H.R.D.C. an opportunity to explain to people of its area past progress and future plans. The Corporation operates in six counties: Carroll, Chariton, Fayette, Pettis, Ray, and Saline.

The North American continent's largest bird, the condor, produces only one egg every two years. If it hatches, the offspring remains in the nest for 18 months.

have to make one stop to get the stuff. That would be on awful Avenue B, where he was born, and where he was well-known.

He said he had this pal on Avenue B he had gone to school with. Well, to the eighth grade anyway. He said the both of them quit then because "we found out we could make $50-60 a day, selling junk (narcotics) in the street."

Nothing unusual about this, Jimmy added. He figured "maybe thousands" of young school-age kids are pushing drugs on New York's lower East Side alone.

"Anyway," Jimmy said, "this pal of mine on Avenue B, he's still on it. He don't got sense to quit like me. He's still bustin' his butt every day to cover his habit, you know. We can buy it from him easy. He knows me good."

We walked then on to Avenue B. Past the kids playing craps on the curb. Past the two fat lovers on their apartment stoop. Past the occasional family in clean church clothes, looking out of place.

Minutes later, we stopped outside a red door.

"This is it," Jimmy said.

We turned in, up a stairway, down a short hallway. Apartment 3-C. Knock, knock. Knock, knock. There was noise inside. We waited. And the door opened.

"Hey, man."

"Hey."

"Bring your tail in."

We entered. And we stood. The place was a mess. A television was playing baseball somewhere in the middle of the garbage. A kid was wacking a wall with a spoon. A half-dressed woman went into the bathroom without speaking. There was the familiar ghetto smell of roach poison and something cooking on the stove.

Jimmy introduced me with a shrug and a crack. His friend nodded his head. Jimmy said the stuff was for me, but I was new in the area and needed a lead-in. He said I was all right. That I had cash and need a 15 bag half-load half-loads are extremely adulterated heroin, selling in New York currently for $20-$30.

"Sure," the pusher said.

That was all there was to it. Just "sure." Five minutes and two bills later the transaction had been completed and Jimmy and I were back in the heat of Avenue B.

I was numb. Jimmy was smoking and silent.

"You know," I stuttered, "this stuff (I patted my pocket) is some of the most precious essence on earth. The police say it's worth $200,000 a pound. Think of that, $200,000 a pound. That's several thousand times as valuable as gold."

But Jimmy wasn't listening. He was suddenly distant now, and uncommunicative. He was sick with sweat and almost glistening in the 90-degree afternoon sun.

I asked him into a cafe, but he refused. I wondered if he wanted some ice cream or something cool, but he said no. And then he closed in tight to me.

I'm not proud of what happened after that. He got the heroin from my pocket. Never mind how. He just got it. He said something about getting rid of it, about how I wasn't safe walking around with it, about what the hell was I doing in this kind of a neighborhood anyway? "spying on all the creeps?"

Then he took the stuff and left.

I suppose it was too hot for him. Yes, that's it. Just too damn hot.

A Computer Blows
Years of Training

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — A computer which had been "trained" for chess matches for three years by a master lost four of its five matches to members of the Flint Chess Club.

The only match won by the computer, nicknamed "J. Bit," was against a teenager who was just learning the game.

"It was really kind of sad," said contestant Frank Terry, of Detroit. "It's programmed to think two moves a second and sorts 1,800 possibilities for each move. But once, the poor thing spent 15 minutes on one move. It lost that one, too."

"J. Bit" is located in the Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh, where it was programmed by current U.S. postal champion Hans Berliner. A teletype machine and open phone line were set up in the game room of the Flint YMCA to connect it to its table at the tournament here.

LUCKY NUMBER

HARROW, Eng. (AP) — Businessman Robert Evans has never had a parking ticket, nor has he ever been hauled up to police court for a traffic offense. But now he wants to sell his good luck — his automobile registration plate, 999MP. London policemen usually assume he is a Member of Parliament, or a member of the metropolitan police, whose emergency number is 999.

Jimmy Wanted Bad To 'Clear Up'

(Second of a Series.)

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The Sunday broke hot over this town.

By 8 a.m. the winos on the Bowery were cursing the discomfort and moving their green bottles into the shade of doorways. By noon a young member of a Sixth Street commune hung out of her tenement window, naked, to cool. And by midday the cops from the ninth precinct were chasing up and down the alleys trying to nab the teenagers breaking open neighborhood fire hydrants.

But Jimmy's shirt was off. Because, in the vernacular of the street, he was "clearing up" — withdrawing from drugs after several years of regular use.

He was doing it the wrong way. Alone. His chances of beating it himself were next to nothing. But he was hopeful. Even insistent. And to prove to me (or was it to himself?) that he can "look the stuff right in the face now," he agreed this Sunday to take me along when he chased (purchased) heroin narcotics.

"You pay for it, man. I'll chase it. Then I'll flush it down the toilet. That's where it belongs anyway, ain't it, man. Down the toilet?"

So hot but confident, Jimmy, age 21, chased.

He said we'd probably only

Stewardesses Learn Grooming

NEW YORK (NEA) — The Eastern Airlines building at Kennedy International Airport houses more than departure gates, baggage claims and reservations desks. On the upper level of the building, sandwiched between administrative offices, is a boutique cum beauty salon where Jean-Marie Allen counsels stewardesses and their supervisors on make-up, grooming and fashion.

"What we stress," said Jean-Marie, applying glue to a false eyelash, "is teaching the girls to apply their own make-up properly, to wear their hair best and to get their own look. Flight assistants (stewardesses) have to look their best all the time. They never know when they'll be called up for a flight or be delayed for several hours in an airport."

Jean-Marie sees eight or nine girls a day at Kennedy. They set up appointments for their free hours and come in for consultation. The flight attendants fill out a form, listing their skin type and the particular problem they have (i.e., dry skin, oily skin, blemishes). Then Jean-Marie prescribes the proper make-up for them. If time permits, she will also do a "make-over" for a girl. Jean-Marie applies makeup to one side of her face, and the girl applies makeup in the same way to the other side.

Airline stewardesses have not always received this kind of help. It's only within the last year that base consultants have been available. And, at present, there are only a few consultants working for Eastern.

Gives Instructions

Jean-Marie Allen shows two flight attendants how to apply their make-up in her salon-boutique in the Eastern Airlines building at Kennedy Airport.

"I spend most of my time at Kennedy," Jean-Marie explained. "But once a week I try to get over to my mini-clinics at Newark and LaGuardia to help the girls over there."

Jean-Marie uses persuasion to get the girls to change their looks. And the stewardesses seem to respond.

Spotting one girl whose blond hair was growing out at the roots, Jean-Marie asked the girl to come in to see her. The stewardess' problem was twofold — not only was her hair growing out at the roots, but its texture was much too thin to be worn chin-length, which is the style she's chosen.

It is Jean-Marie's job to keep all the stewardesses looking well, because they represent the airlines. But she appeals to a girl's self-interest to get her to change.

"I can guess why this girl's roots are growing out and her hair is at an-in-between length," Jean-Marie said, smiling. "She probably has a boy friend who likes her hair better brown and loves long hair. So she's

Garden Club News

Green Ridge Garden Club staged a standard flower show at the Chamber of Commerce building in Green Ridge recently. Mrs. Amy Acker won the sweepstakes award in horticulture and Mrs. W. L. Whittal was awarded sweepstakes in the arrangement division. Mrs. Whittal won the creativity rosette and the tricolor ribbon and she won the Hazel Rayburn award for the most points in the arrangement division.

Mrs. Tom Butts was the runnerup and was awarded the second place Hazel Rayburn award. Miss Ruth Pfaff received the award of merit on a specimen of Japanese peony.

Donald M. Chrisisen of the Missouri Department of Conservation arranged an Educational Exhibit, "Missouri Prairies."

Mrs. Cecil Hite was hostess to the Otterville Garden Club on Friday afternoon, assisting hostesses, Mrs. R. E. Kirchner and Mrs. Ethel Walters.

In the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. O. W. Howard gave the devotions. The president, Mrs. Hite, conducted the business meeting during which two new members were received. They are Mrs. W. L. Burford and Mrs. James Young.

Plans were completed for a tour of members' gardens to be taken June 5, starting from the schoolhouse grounds at 8 a.m. The program was presented by Mr. E. M. "Doc" Johnson, a Sedalia nurseryman. He spoke on landscaping and answered members' questions concerning individual problems.

Mrs. J. H. Parson's bird information for the month was about the thrasher family.

In artistic designs blue ribbons were won by Mrs. William Dunham and Mrs. M. T. Keevil. Specimen awards went to Mrs. Dunham, Mrs. Hite, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Keevil, Mrs. Kirchner, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Lewis Smith, Mrs. Walters and Miss Lucile Wear.

The June meeting will be an all day one at the American Legion Home on June 19, beginning with a flower arranging workshop at 10 a.m.

Ginger Snaps

By Ginger Moore

With most schools ending their sessions this week, hundreds of high school and college students will begin the annual task of looking for summer jobs. Unfortunately there are not many such jobs open.

Some towns have projects such as Youth For Hire and Youth Employment Services. These are usually sponsored by a civic club which tries to find temporary jobs for students and in turn provide needed services for area residents.

These services usually have students willing to wash windows, help pack for moving, babysit, mow lawns and bale hay. The pay for the jobs range from 75 cents to $2 an hour.

Students are interviewed by prospective employers or by the organization sponsoring the service to check on reliability and capability of the students.

Such an organization in Sedalia could provide students with their needed extra money and adults with extra help.

About Town

A dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Brumley to honor them on their birthday anniversaries. Mrs. Brumley was 71 and Mr. Brumley was 72. Many friends and relatives were on hand to enjoy the occasion.

Mrs. Matilda Sanders was honored on her 80th birthday at a dinner given by her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Sanders at their home Sunday. Enjoying the celebration with her were many relatives and friends.

The June meeting will be an all day one at the American Legion Home on June 19, beginning with a flower arranging workshop at 10 a.m.

The diamond needed to be checked and they were extremely dirty. The jeweler said, "Of course," and suggested I continue my shopping and he would have them ready in a half hour. After finishing my shopping and returning to the store to pick up my rings (which were considerably improved) I found that the jeweler refused to let me pay him for this extra service.

Needless to say this extra thoughtfulness and consideration will be remembered the next time I am shopping.

Later that same afternoon I went to a local cleaner to pick up my cleaning. Not only was the gentlemen helping me friendly and cheerful, but he did me the extra service of carrying the rather large batch of clothes to my car.

Again, I will not forget that, nor will I neglect to mention to my friends and neighbors.

It would seem a good idea if all stores and businesses would strive to give to their customers the little extra which puts businesses at the top of customers' shopping lists.

It's amazing what a little bit of extra service can do for the attitude of people toward a store. For instance, recently I was downtown shopping, buying a gift in a jewelry store, nothing expensive, just a small gift. While there I asked if they could clean my wedding rings.

Top Economist Is Confident Of Recovery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon's top economics adviser says the nation's economy has not declined into recession but instead shows signs of picking up by the end of the year.

Dr. Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said Tuesday he sees "encouraging forces of the economy" which preclude any danger of a depression.

These optimistic signs, he said, are an apparent lack of inventory build-up, a consistent demand of industry for more output, improved after-tax income and an opening of the money supply for loans and mortgages.

Speaking to newsmen before addressing the annual conference of the Planning Executives Institute, McCracken said the administration continues to stand firm against wage-price controls to hold down inflation.

McCracken said the "severe whip-sawing in the stock market" is "incident to inflation," but he otherwise refused to answer questions about the market decline.

Sexiness Inborn Quality, Says a French Actress

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Bisset is the kind of girl a man would turn to look at twice even if he were fleeing a sinking ship.

But attractive as she is with her striking figure, copper-brown hair and 250-watt, gray-green eyes, Miss Bisset, one of the most rapidly rising young international film stars, has no desire to be billed as a sex image.

"I don't think of myself as that at all," she said. "When they tell me to be sexy in a photograph, I don't know what they mean."

"Do they mean you should hike your skirt up or stick your tongue out? It's ridiculous. What makes a person sexy is liking the opposite sex. It's more mental than physical. There are a lot of birds around who dress in a sexy fashion, but who aren't at all sexy in their minds. They are just doing a narcissistic trick in their heads."

"A Frenchwoman, even if plain, is attractive because she is aware of being a woman and feels like a woman. That makes a man feel more masculine."

During a brief career as a London model, Jackie—as her friends know her now—had such nicknames as "Jackson," "The Biscuit," and "B.B.B.," for "big-bottomed broad."

"But they can't call me by the last one now—that's gone," said Miss Bisset, with the pleasant complacency of a girl who tapes in at 36-24-36.

Only 24, Jackie already has been in 11 films, including "The Detective," "Bullitt," and "Airport." She has appeared with such top male stars as Frank Sinatra, Albert Finney, Dean Martin, and Steve McQueen. In her latest picture, "The Grasshopper," she is costarred with Jim Brown and plays the title role of a Las Vegas lass with elastic morals.

She feels that she has reached a difficult point in her career.

"I've been identified with so many famous male stars that now I have the problem of establishing my own identity," she said. "Not necessarily as a star, but at least an identity."

"My goal changes as I go along. If I do a big part well, then I want to do a small part brilliantly. I want to keep growing, not become static, and keep experiencing new emotions, good or bad."

"But to me life is fun. My philosophy? Well, I kind of like the advice a girl friend once gave me: 'Relax, to thine own self be true—and lie like hell to everyone else.' But I don't think she really meant it. The same with me."

She says she has no present plans to marry. She likes to dress and live informally. Her home is a tiny beach shack near Malibu.

Asked what she would like to be at 70, Jackie said:

"I'd like to be a marvelously eccentric old lady who makes people laugh and who listens to children."

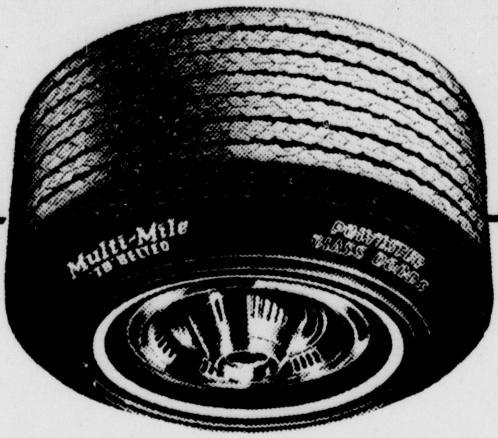

The name, "dandelion," is a corruption of the French "dent-de-lion," meaning lion's tooth.
